Research shows that women from Eastern European countries are less likely to have cervical screening in the UK than British women.

We would like to find out -

Why some women from Eastern European countries don't use the NHS for screening?

We want to encourage women to use this free health check because having regular cervical screening offers the best protection against developing cervical cancer.

What could be changed to encourage more women to attend?

Tell Wessex Voices (a collaboration between NHS England and five local Healthwatch in Hampshire and Dorset) what you think by completing this questionnaire. All questions are optional and feedback is anonymous.
